The National Museum of Nuclear Science & History isn't just a museum.

It's a place to learn, to imagine, to think and to draw your own conclusions. We welcome visitors of all ages and all walks of life because the history and science of nuclear energy affects each and every one of us. Children will love Little Albert's Lab, where inquisitive minds can explore hands-on science activities, and no one will want to miss the planes, missiles and atomic cannon in our 9-acre outdoor Heritage Park!

At the National Museum of Nuclear Science & History, it's our mission to chronicle the past, describe the present and imagine the future of nuclear science. Learn what's happening at the cutting edge of energy, nanotechnology and healthcare.
